Dean Linton Writes for Saturday Evening Post

An article by Dr. Calvin D. Linton, Dean of the University's Columbian College of Arts and Sciences, entitled "What Happened to Common Sense?" appeared in the recent April 28 issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

The article is a revision of Dr. Linton's October Convocation address at the University.

Do you have a special interest in a particular educational field or area? A provision for the University in your will, covering your particular academic interest, can be a valuable gift to higher education. The provision in your will might provide for scholarships, professorships, project studies, or visiting lecturers. Remembering the University in your will can mean that future generations of students and scholars may increase the field of knowledge applicable to your area of interest. There are many ways through deferred giving in which you may perpetuate your educational interests for future generations.

Carroll Honored At Berkeley

University President Thomas H. Carroll was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by his alma mater, the University of California at Berkeley, on the occasion of the inauguration of its third chancellor.

The President of the United States John F. Kennedy and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara received honorary Doctor of Laws degrees at the same ceremony.

Dr. Edward W. Strong was inaugurated as Chancellor to succeed Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, who resigned to serve as Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

President Carroll received a B.S. in business administration from Berkeley and holds a master's and doctor's degrees from Harvard University.

Patent Conference Scheduled

The Annual Public Conference of the University's Patent, Trademark, and Copyright Foundation will be held Thursday and Friday, June 14 and 15, at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington.

Dr. Vannevar Bush, recipient of the Foundation's Charles F. Kettering Award for 1961, will be honored at a dinner on Thursday evening.

The President's Message . . .

It is a real pleasure to announce that Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, USNR (Ret.), will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting and dinner of the General Alumni Association May 9, at the new National Lawyers' Club.

Admiral Strauss, a trustee of the University, is one of the Nation's outstanding citizens. He has had two brilliant careers: one as a government official and the other in the field of international banking.

He was Secretary to Herbert Hoover 1917-19; served as a member of the Atomic Energy Commission 1946-50; was Assistant to the President of the United States on atomic energy matters in 1953; and from 1953 to 1958 served as Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

I know that every alumnus will want to hear the message that Trustee Strauss will bring to us.

J. FRANK DOUBLEDAY, President
General Alumni Association

Miami Alumni Club Elects

Officers elected at the first annual Washington Birthday meeting of the Miami Club this year were as follows: President William F. Russell, AB 50; Vice President Louis M. Barnett, AB 42; Secretary-Treasurer Samuel Z. Goldman, AA (wd) 47, AB 49, LLB 51.

Faculty Colloquy Series Initiated

The University Chapel is sponsoring a series of four faculty colloquies led by distinguished scholars who represent different religious traditions. The lectures are presented at luncheon meetings and followed by open discussion. A grant from the Swedenborg Foundation supports the series.

At the April 5 colloquy, the Director of the Research Center in Creative Altruism at Harvard University Pitirim A. Sorokin spoke on "Religion and Contemporary Society."

On May 10, the speaker will be Richard H. Tafel, President-elect of the General Convention of the New Jerusalem in the USA. His subject is "Religion and Eschatology."

GW TV Course Wins Award

The Committee on Awards of the Civil War Centennial Commission awarded a Certificate of Achievement to the University for its "splendid" television course, "The Civil War: The Record and the Interpretation." The course, presented over WTOP-TV Classroom 9 during the spring semester of 1961, was taught by Robert H. Land, Assistant Chief of the General Reference and Bibliography Division of the Library of Congress.

The course was offered as a part of WTOP-TV's "Classroom 9" series, in which the University has participated for the past three years.

When you receive your Annual Alumni Fund mailings for the 1962 campaign, we hope the following will be your motto:

APERITE, LEGITE, DATE!*
*Translated from Latin: open, read, give.

Letters to the Editor

I read with interest in the Newsletter about the "Operations Alert" program of distributing J. Edgar Hoover's book Masters of Deceit. It is an excellent book. We have it in our home, and all of the members of our family have read it. However, I can't help but feel that it would be far more effective if there were also a book right beside it . . . John Kennedy's . . . Profiles In Courage or some specially prepared biography about him. The reason is, I was at my husband's office, he is a physician, and when I left I felt as though there was something important that was missing. In thinking it over I realized what it was. There was no positive answer to the Communist program to be seen unless it is in John Kennedy; and his book or a specially prepared pamphlet should be beside Hoover's so that the people will understand that that is it and nothing else. It is not because he is Kennedy, but because he is our President, and a symbol to our people. J. Edgar Hoover's book by itself is like having one arm; we have to have two, and I'm sure he would agree with me.

I have already attended to this in my husband's office.

Very Sincerely,
Lois B. Kline, AB 41

Membership in the General Alumni Association

Active members include Life Members, current contributors to the Alumni Fund, and Life Members of the various school alumni organizations. New graduates are members for the year following graduation.

Annual membership cards are sent to all contributors to the annual Alumni Fund. However, the receipt of annual cards by Life Members does not mean their life membership has been abolished. No life memberships have been issued since 1954. Since it is a prohibitive clerical operation to check all names of contributors each year against the life membership list, life members who are contributors receive an annual membership card.

Rotary Scholarship

Harry B. Qualman, GW senior majoring in International Affairs, is the winner of a Rotary Foundation Scholarship for one year of graduate study at the University of Dakar in Senegal, Africa.

The purpose of the Rotary Scholarships is to provide a channel for person-to-person diplomacy and, at the same time, to provide an opportunity for study in a foreign university.

CARROLL

Zuckert Receives Honorary Degree

Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws and gave the graduation address at the Winter Convocation, February 22.

Secretary Zuckert was commended by President Carroll for the service he rendered when he "gave wise counsel and leadership in the reorganization of this University's School of Government, Business, and International Affairs."

In reply, Secretary Zuckert said, "My association with the University has been one of the more rewarding activities of my life." His satisfaction, he explained, comes from the knowledge that he helped in the development of a university which is training potential leaders of a nation in crisis. He then outlined the position of the United States as a leader in the free world.

"We must build, and keep modern, the forces necessary to overcome the total military threat to the security of the free world. We are gaining ground in terms of closer cooperation among all the free nations, particularly within the Atlantic community. Our investment in the Alliance for Progress and in the United Nations are part of the building job toward a free world structure stronger than the Communist pyramid of regimentation."

In cataloging our present and future resources, Secretary Zuckert mentioned the NATO nations and recommended that we keep open channels of trade with these nations to which we are bound by "common ideals of freedom and a common danger. . . . If the President's trade proposals, which would open to us the production and consuming power of Europe's common market, were rejected, it would be dissipation of part of freedom's resources and evidence of a lack of faith in our cause. Conversely, adoption of the program means continuing increase in the power of the free world."

What's New in Your University . . .

Several weekend seminars were recently sponsored by the College of General Studies at Airlie House, a conference center in Warrenton, Va. Fifty foreign students who are completing work toward degrees in this country attended the seminar on "America Today—Image and Reality," sponsored by CGS in cooperation with the Department of State. Twenty visiting German journalists attended the seminar discussions on American political, social, and educational life. Discussions were moderated by GW faculty, and leaders in education, industry, labor, and civic life participated. Later, conferences for fifty more foreign students and twenty Brazilian journalists were held. These seminars inaugurate what is planned to be an extensive series of such conferences.

A new program in Sino-Soviet studies will begin next September under the auspices of the School of Government, Business, and International Affairs, with Dr. Kurt London, one of the government's top experts in problems of U.S. foreign policy and the communist bloc, as coordinator of this interdisciplinary research and graduate teaching program. The aim of the program is to provide government leaders and qualified graduate students with a broad base for the formulation of a more effective policy in the general aspects of the cold war conflict.

In September, Dr. Paul V. Bissell will succeed Dr. Don C. Faith, retiring Director of Activities for Men. Dr. Bissell is now on campus as Associate Director of Activities for Men. He holds a Doctor of Philosophy degree in psychology from the University of Iowa and has taught at Northeast Missouri State Teachers College, the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and the University of Maryland off-campus installation at Fort Meade, Maryland. He holds the rank of Colonel in the U.S. Army and is former chief of the plans, policy, and training division of the Office of the Inspector General. His army assignments have been primarily in the areas of education, training, and personnel administration.

Dr. Herman H. Hobbs was named chairman of the Physics Department in March. He joined the faculty in 1959 as Associate Professor, after holding a post-doctoral fellowship at the University of Virginia where he received a Doctor of Philosophy degree. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees from GW.

Editors and publishers of daily and weekly newspapers throughout the country who met in Washington for a three-day Government Relations Workshop sponsored by the National Editorial Association in March held a morning session with GW faculty members to discuss the relationship of the Government and the press.

The University's second annual spring conference on education, sponsored by Phi Delta Kappa, included a symposium by area educational leaders on educational experiments today, and an address by Dr. Daniel Schneider, coordinator of New York City's "Higher Horizons" program.

A special course in "The Retarded Child in the Family" is offered during the current Spring Semester by the College of General Studies.

Your gift to the 1962 Annual Alumni Fund will help keep The George Washington University an influential educational institution.

Columbian Women . . .

Mrs. Elva C. Wells, former Dean of Students at the Beirut College for Women in Lebanon, spoke on her experiences in the Middle East at the April luncheon meeting of Columbian Women. Mrs. Wells is herself a member of Columbian Women and holds the A.B. and A.M. in Education degrees from GW.

At their March meeting, the Columbian Women heard Director of the Mint Eva B. Adams, LLM 52, speak on the subject "Penny Wise." Miss Adams has since become a member of Columbian Women.

University women students will describe student life at the University to Columbian Women following the annual brunch and business meeting on Saturday, May 26. Columbian Women's 85 life members will be honored on this occasion also.

During the current Spring Semester, 11 girls held GW scholarships provided by Columbian Women.

Government Contracts Institute

The Ninth Annual Institute on Government Contracts is scheduled for May 3 and 4. Again this year, the Institute will be jointly sponsored by the University and the Federal Bar Association.

Faculty Notes

Ruth H. Atwell, Professor Emeritus of Physical Education for Women, held her first one-woman show of marine paintings in April at the Tilburne Gallery in Alexandria, Va. . . . Dr. Murdock Head, Chairman of GW's Institute for Forensic Medicine, moderated a University-sponsored panel discussion on "The United Nations: Challenge of the 60's," broadcast on WRC-TV. Panel members were James Wadsworth, former Ambassador to the UN; Dr. Joseph Sisco, Director, UN Political and Security Affairs; and Dr. Arthur Miller, Professor of Law. . . . "Is the First Amendment Obsolete?" was the subject of a talk given by Dean of the National Law Center Charles B. Nutting when he discussed the freedoms of religion, peaceful assembly, speech, and press at an open meeting sponsored by the University's Student Cultural Foundation. . . . Edwin L. Stevens, Professor of Speech, moderated a panel discussion of "Challenge to Survival," theme of the annual Midwinter Alumni Day sponsored by Rutgers Alumni Association on the Rutgers campus. . . . Dr. Charles Stanley White, Clinical Instructor in Surgery, was named Doctor of the Year by the Southern Medical Association in March. Dr. White was one of the first surgeons to sew up the human heart. . . . Dr. Winfred Overholser, Superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital and Professor Emeritus of Psychiatry, appeared with Dr. Murdock Head, Chairman of the Institute of Forensic Medicine, on the YOUR DECISION series broadcast on WMAL-TV. The topic under discussion was alcoholism on the local, national, and international levels. . . . Dr. Helen B. Yakobson, Associate Professor of Russian and Chairman of the Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures, was elected President of the American Association of Teachers of Slavic and East European Languages at the organization's annual convention in Chicago.

Fraternity Honors

President Thomas H. Carroll and seven student leaders were elected to membership in the GW chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, men's national honorary leadership fraternity.

In Baltimore, at the annual Founders' Day Banquet of Delta Sigma Pi, national professional commerce society, President Carroll was honored as "Delta Sig of the Year."

D. C. Ports Honoree At Howard Lecture

Recipient of this year's annual Distinguished Alumnus Award, presented by the Engineering Alumni Association, is Delmar C. Ports, BS (wd) 37, Vice President of Jansky & Bailey, subsidiary of Atlantic Research Corporation. Presentation will be made at the annual Frank Howard Lecture in Lisner Lounge at an open meeting on May 8 at 8:15 p.m. Mr. Ports will deliver the lecture. He has selected "Satellite Communications" as his topic.

Outstanding seniors in the School of Engineering will be presented Certificates of Achievement at the meeting. All engineering alumni are urged to attend.

Dean Martin A. Mason of the School of Engineering (right) accepts a check from the American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers for use in support of the Center for Measurement Science. Presenting the check is Mr. Alfred J. Weisbecker, chairman of the Washington chapter of A.S.T.M.E.

Medical Alumni Office Opens

In School of Medicine

Dr. Alfred Brigulio, President of the Medical Alumni, announced that a special room has been made available by the School of Medicine at 1335 H Street, N. W., for use as an office and meeting place for Medical Alumni. The Association underwrote the costs of furnishings and staffing. Mrs. Ruth Jackson has been employed as office secretary to set up and maintain files and handle correspondence and other Association business.

Special Summer Program For Measurement Science

The School of Engineering's Center for Measurement Science will present for the second year a two-week special summer program in Precise Measurement. The three intensive courses which will run consecutively from June 11-18 are Foundations of Precise Measurement, Precise Electrical Measurements, and Transducers in Precise Measurement.

This activity is a part of the continuing effort of the Center to assist in satisfying the urgent need of industry and of the nation for improved measurement capability.

The unique over-all program of the Center, vital to the space age, was established in 1961 as a cooperative training and research project of the University, the Government, and industry.

New Service Offered Traveling Faculty Members

A new service to enable American faculty members and married graduate students to visit different parts of the U.S. or Canada for the cost of transportation alone has been formed. Called Quid Pro Quo, the program maintains a registry of university and college people willing to offer their homes for a suitable exchange. Arrangements can also be made for exchanges with European faculty members over the summer or for longer periods (sabbaticals, grants, etc.).

Quid Pro Quo, located at 865 West End Ave., New York City, maintains a fee schedule ranging from $25 for domestic to $75 for European exchanges.

Sports Stars Honored At Colonial Banquet

The fourth annual All-Sports banquet, sponsored by The Colonials, Inc., GW's alumni sports booster organization, proved a highlight of the sports year at Kenwood Country Club on April 18. Two football players and a basketball star received trophies in recognition of their services on the gridiron and court. Lou DeSimone, who completed four years of varsity football last fall, was awarded the Tuffy Leemans trophy, annually given to the outstanding senior; and Dick Drummond, a sensation in his first year of college football in '61, was given the Campbell-Kaufman trophy. The latter, presented for the first time by WOL's radio team of Mal Campbell and Sam Kaufman which broadcast GW's games last Fall, is to be given annually to the most valuable player as selected by his teammates. For the second successive year, little Jon Feldman was awarded the Tommy O'Brien memorial trophy which goes to the most valuable courtman. The mighty mite finished a brilliant three-year career with an average of better than 20 points per game.

Special individual trophies with an inscription "COR" (Latin for courage) went to members of the freshman basketball team for "unusual courage" shown the night of January 20 when they defeated Georgetown, 111-110, in a four-overtime period game. Five of the original squad of eight had been forced to the sidelines because of personal fouls, but three—Ric Duques, Mark Clark and Gary Holloman—played against five GU players for nearly five minutes to win the thrilling encounter.

Another highlight of the banquet was the presentation by Colonials President Robert Tull of $1,000 from the Colonials to President Thomas Carroll for University scholarships.

Baseball & Tennis Start Well

Southern Conference championships in both baseball and tennis could be within the grasp of George Washington's teams as these lines are being read. Both got off to fine starts this spring: Coach Bill Shreve's racketeers winning four of their first five matches, and Coach Bill Reinhart's nine taking three of its first four games. The tennis team has Frank "Buddy" Goeltz, the metropolitan area's ranking player, as its No. 1 man.

Educational TV Conducts Drive

The University is a member of the Greater Washington Educational Television Association (GWETA), an organization which supports Washington's first educational television station, Channel 26 WETA-TV, which broadcasts without advertising. This station broadcasts evening programs for adult viewing and daytime in-school programs for 18 school districts in the Washington metropolitan area.

The Association is now conducting a drive for membership which will support these programs, including programs produced by the University's Department of Radio and Television.
